HALF MILLION REPORTED DEAD IN JAPAN

AMERICA and the Modern World

The Tribune here presents the first of a series of articles to appear every Monday in the great nation-wide non-partisan popular referendum as to America's international duty so earnestly advocated by the late President Harding shortly before his death. Readers are asked to study these articles carefully and preserve them for future reference. At the end of the series, a few weeks hence, a summary of all will be given with a blank ballot on which readers may cross-mark their yea or nay on the various vital phases of the problem and mail to this office. Leading newspapers the country over are taking part in this important inquiry, and the result of the voting in the nation at large will be compiled and published in these columns. "In this crystallization," wrote Mr. Harding, "will be found the decision of the republic."

ARTICLE ONE
BY WALTER WELLMAN
(Special Dispatch to The Tribune.)

NEW YORK.—Had his life been spared it was the resolve of the late President Harding to do all in his power to make America the leader in a new organization for the abolition of war and militarism. He believed the great accomplishment was within reach under our leadership. He also believed that if the American people could be induced to settle down to real thought on this question they would indorse his high purpose. He therefore asked that the opinion of our people be drawn forth by the press of the country without politics or propaganda in the effort.

Through certain circumstances, Mr. Harding happened to place this his legacy to the press and people in my hands. I shall try to execute it to the best of my ability. If he had lived I should have had his help and counsel. But now I ask the co-operation of the newspaper readers of the land, their patience and kindliness. Let us approach the subject with the dominant thought that it is important, that it is interesting, and that the outcome may be of incalculable influence upon the future of our country and of the world. Therefore let us try to reason the thing out together in a common-sense, friendly, American sort of way.

World Must Progress

We may well start with perception of the fact that the world does not and cannot stand still. In our intensely active and complex modern life things move and change with amazing rapidity. If we would keep abreast of the times we live in we must watch these movements with sharp eyes. Now and then changing conditions and relationships of things may compel even the most cautious and conservative of us to revise some of our old time beliefs.

That was an experience the dead president passed through. All his life before he reached the white house he had had in his creed the time-honored traditional policy of American aloofness from the turmoils of Europe, as many millions of good Americans had before him, and millions still have. It was the responsibility of the presidency that drove Mr. Harding to concentrated thought on this subject. Responsibility often does that, as we all know, and every one of us bears a little responsibility in this great problem, today the most acute before the people of all the world.

Prayed for Light

Eager to do his duty, do what was right, what was best and could be done, Mr. Harding started thinking. For many days and nights he sought light through earnest, even prayerful consideration. Whether or not you who read this are to pass through a comparable experience I am sure you will be glad to know what happened to the man in the white house asking even the Creator to help him determine what his duty was as head of the great American nation.

The first basic fact he had to consider was this: After the world war had ended there was a hope, a belief that out of this tragedy would

U. S. RUSHES AID TO STRICKEN FOLK OF EASTERN EMPIRE

Whole Asiatic Fleet Turned Over to Japanese Admiralty for Any Service

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Inauguration by the American Red Cross of a five million dollar campaign for relief of the Japanese earthquake sufferers was announced Tuesday by Eliot Wadsworth, treasurer of the organization, after a conference with President Coolidge, Secretary Hoover and Japanese ambassador Hanihari.

"To the People of the United States:

"An overwhelming disaster has overtaken the people of the friendly nation of Japan. Tokio and Yokohama, and surrounding towns and villages, have been destroyed by earthquake, fire and flood with a resultant appalling loss of life and destitution and distress, requiring measures of urgent relief.

"Such assistance as is within the means of the executive department of the government will be given, but realizing the great suffering which now needs relief and will need relief for days to come, I am prompted to appeal urgently to the American people, whose sympathies have always been so comprehensive, to contribute in aiding the unfortunate and giving relief to the people of Japan.

"In order that the utmost co-ordination and effectiveness in the administration of the relief funds be obtained I recommend that all contributions, clearly designated, be sent to the chairman of the American National Red Cross at Washington or to any of the local Red Cross chapters for transmission to Japan."

While Americans individually throughout the country were responding to the proclamation by President Coolidge, ships of the army and navy already were either under way or loading with supplies for relief. In addition the entire Asiatic fleet has been placed at the disposal of the Japanese minister of marine for any possible service, and plans were said to contemplate the use of other government vessels.

Rush Food to Victims

After American relief plans had been discussed Monday at the White House and at the state, war, navy and other departments, it was announced that the destroyer tender Black Hawk would be loaded on her arrival at Chefoo, China, with one million pounds of rice and 500,000 pounds of beans and other non-perishable foods.

The war department at the same time ordered the army transports Meigs and Merritt to proceed from Manila with food, medical supplies and bedding from the army stores there. A sufficient enlisted force to take care of distribution was also sent.

Destroyers on Way

Meanwhile seven destroyers of the Asiatic fleet are nearing Japan with medical supplies and food, one being due to arrive at Nagasaki Tuesday

The ambassador said the food situation was very acute and asked that rations be sent at once from the Philippine Islands.

Coincidentally the state department received a dispatch from American Consul Davis at Shanghai saying Tokio, Yokohama and Yokosuka had been "completely wiped out." Casualties among foreigners, he said, had been "very numerous."

RIOT AND STARVATION IN TRAIL OF CATASTROPHE WIPING OUT FOUR CITIES

Members of Royal Family Die in Holocaust; Tokio and Yokohama Utterly Ruined; Islands Reported Sunken Under Sea

(By the Associated Press.)

VIRTUAL destruction of Tokio and Yokohama are reported in the first direct communication received from Tokio by the outside world since the earthquake and tidal wave, followed in places by fire, laid waste an important section of Hodo, chief island of Japan, last Saturday. The communication was from an Associated Press star correspondent.

Dead Over 300,000

It appears from these that the disaster is greater than previous reports have indicated. The ministry of marine estimates the dead in Tokio alone at 150,000; the best estimates place the death in Yokohama at 100,000; virtual destruction of Nagoya, a town of 620,000, is reported, and Yokosuka, a town of 70,000, is said to have been wiped out by the successive attacks of earthquakes, tidal wave and fire.

Grave damage has been done in the summer resort sections about Hakons and on the Izu peninsula. Monetary loss in Tokio alone is placed at five billion yen.

Martial law is effective in the stricken cities; none may enter without the most urgent reasons or without carrying their own food supplies.

More than 3,500,000 bushels of rice are being rushed from southern Japanese ports and from Korea to the stricken regions, where thousands are reported starving, and in Tokio, suffering from thirst because the earthquake wrecked the water supply system, water is being doled out there by the same relief workers who are distributing the inadequate supplies of food the government has been able to transport thither.

Royalty Killed

The death or injury of several members of the royal houses is feared, though the emperor, empress and prince regent are safe.

Reports that the new premier, Count Yamamoto, has been assassinated are current, but there is little confirmation for any stronger statement than that he was attacked and the attackers' aim frustrated. The attack is said to have been made at a meeting in the Navy Club, where a number of statesmen were forming the new cabinet.

The floor collapsed, and the premier was injured, but the meeting was continued in an adjoining building and its business completed. Viscount Takahashi and fifteen others are reported to have been killed while attending a party meeting.

Islands Disappear?

Several islands including Enoshima, noted beauty spot, and one of the Bonin group, on which is the Japan end of a trans-Pacific cable link, are reported to have disappeared below the surface of the sea, but there has been no confirmation of this.

Communications are at a standstill. It is expected that it will be at least a month before the Tokaido line, running from Tokio to Kobe will be in operation again. This line apparently suffered most. Airplanes are being used to carry official messages from Osaka to Tokio.

Two of the ships in Yokohama harbor when the tidal wave struck have been heard from. A number of naval vessels at Yokosuka, the naval base, were driven ashore by the tidal wave and some are said to have suffered explosions in their magazines.

Many Explosions

There have been explosions of oil storage tanks at Yokohama and of gas storage tanks at Tokio, great damage resulting.

More than 300,000 houses have been destroyed in Tokio, it is estimated. Two years will be required to rebuild the city, if not more.

The American, French and Italian embassy buildings have been destroyed, as has the Chinese legation.

MUSSOLINI TO WITHDRAW DELEGATES FROM GENEVA IF VIEWS ARE NOT MET

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

IN the first column of this page is the first of a series of articles by Walter Wellman, veteran journalist and confidante of the late President Harding. The series was written with the approval of Mr. Harding for the purpose of inducing Americans to think seriously of American duty and opportunity in world affairs.

It was intended as a basis upon which to found a movement for world peace, by President Harding, as has been somewhat prematurely revealed since the hand of Fate struck down the president at the beginning of his work.

The series, however, will be carried out, to instruct and inform the people of the situation of the world and its relationship to our past traditions and present responsibilities. The Tribune urges every reader to follow this series closely. It is being printed all over the country, and it is hoped that through it there may be crystallized and made manifest some mandate to guide the foreign policy of the United States in leadership toward a progressive and effective solution of the world's greatest problem—

How to Prevent War.

Won't Agree To Intervention of League of Nations

LONDON—By The Associated Press—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Rome Tuesday says Premier Mussolini told the cabinet that if the council of the League of Nations asserts its competency to deal with the Greco-Italian controversy, Italy will withdraw from th league.

ROME—Premier Mussolini, it is reported, is ready to withdraw the Italian delegates from the Geneva conference if his viewpoint concerning the conflict with Greece is not shared by the league of nations.

Won't Accept League Action

PARIS.—The Quai 'Orsay received word on Monday that the Italian delegate at Geneva had been instructed to tell the council of the league on Tuesday, when it considers the Greek demand for league intervention in the Italo-Greek crisis, that Premier Mussolini refuses to agree to intervention of the league.

It was openly indicated in highest quarters in Paris after receipt of this news that while the French government would not have been displeased to see Rome agree to league action, it would not bring any strong pressure to bear on Mussolini.

EAGLE OF GERMANY EMERGES INTO OPEN IN SENATE CHAMBER

German Bird Released from War-time Imprisonment Behind American Flag

MADISON, Wis.—The eagle of Imperial Germany, perched conspicuously in the foreground of the Wisconsin senate chamber painting, is tempted to scream with usual vigor these days.

He has been released from his war-time imprisonment behind the American flag, and is once more the special object of sight seeing tourists who view the artist's portrayal of world peace and good-will depicted by the painter of the senate picture.

When it was that this defiant looking German bird came out into full view again, is not known in the capitol. Since early in 1917 the eagle had been hidden behind the fold of the American flag, pinned in this protecting position at the direction of the senate while the United States was at war.

Following hostilities and upon the renewal of peace with Germany the American flag continued to hold its place in front of the German bird. People imagined that the flag was part of the picture.

Then, according to the office of the superintendent of public property, the pin came loose, and again the eagle came to the front where it remains, a part of a general picture.

Conceived to represent world peace that had endured for years, the senate painting had scarcely dried before the World War broke out in 1914. The German eagle, representing the German nation has its place with the shield of Great Britain and emblems of other countries.

Capitol authorities say that the German bird will be permitted to retain its place unobstructed.

DECISION ON SITE ENDS LONG FIGHT OVER COUNTY SEAT

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa.—By The Associated Press.—Decision of Linn county supervisors to build the new courthouse and jail on the municipal island in Cedar river, marked the end of a 40 year controversy over the location of the seat of county government. Work already has started on the buildings, which will cost approximately $700,000 and will be among the finest structures of their kind in the state.

The location of the buildings, from the standpoint of sightliness and convenience, could not be bettered. They will be of easy access, in the heart of the downtown district, and midway between east and west Cedar Rapids, which had contended for the location.

Several years ago citizens of the county voted to change the seat of the county government from Marion to Cedar Rapids, but a location acceptable to all was not found and the county officers continued to use the old buildings at Marion. The city council then voted to deed four acres of the island to the county and the offer was accepted.

JANITORS MAKE WAR UPON BAT ARMY IN WISCONSIN CAPITOL

Organize Batting Squad to Clear Out Hundreds of Bats Seeking Shelter in State House

MADISON, Wis. — A "batting squad" is the latest innovation at the state capitol.

The state house with its wide open doors and windows minus screens admits anything that wants to fly in. During the summer an occasional bat wandered through the corridors. Then came the damp cold weather.

Hundreds of bats seeking shelter discovered the capitol building and ascended to all sections.

Feminine employes threw coats over their heads as they went from office to office. Swooping along the corridors the little animals passed visiting tourists and employes so closely that screams echoed through the building again and again.

Then came the "batting squad" made up of a number of capitol janitors. Equipped with pails, brooms and ladders they made the rounds in the morning when the bats rested in corners of the walls and ceilings. Brushed into pails of water they were unable to get out and drowned.

The first morning netted 150 of the animals. The next morning saw the killing of 80 more and now there is just an occasional bat left.

Mr. Plunkett is to receive a fortune estimated at about $1,500,000 which has been lying in a bank in England for him for the last ten years. An Official Statement by the Governor of South Dakota

On August 29, Governor McMaster, of South Dakota, issued the following statement:—

"At a meeting with Colonel Stewart, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and other Standard Oil Officials, held in Pierre this morning, Mr. Stewart expressed unqualifiedly the willingness of Standard Oil to comply with the wishes of the consumers of the State of South Dakota in so far as those wishes could be expressed and interpreted by the governor of this state. These Standard officials, although they contend that the present prices do not properly reflect the costs of production, refining and distribution, plus a reasonable profit, were willing, at my request, to do one of two things—raise the price of gasoline immediately in the State of South Dakota where it would represent a six and six-tenths cent reduction over former prices, or maintain, for the time being, sixteen cent gasoline in the State of South Dakota, using Mitchell as a base.

"After due consideration, the Standard Oil officials were asked by the governor to maintain the present price of 16 cents for the time being. I wish to accept full responsibility for this situation and state that Standard Oil, by deed and act, is working in fullest co-operation with the governor of this state and therefore can in no respect be blamed for 16 cents gasoline from this date.

"I realize that the independents who have viciously assailed and attacked me will raise bitter complaint against this condition. However, after due consideration and investigation, I wish to say that if the former gasoline prices of this state were excessive, the independents of this state were just as responsible for that condition and were just as guilty of taking excess profits as was Standard Oil.

"At no time during the period which former gasoline prices prevailed did any independent of this state raise one objection or bring one complaint to this office in an effort to bring about any reduction in price but they were perfectly willing to profit to the fullest extent.

"I realize that all sorts of charges will be made against me because of this action, but in view of the fact that gasoline can be purchased at various refineries today for approximately seven cents a gallon, it will not work injury to the public cause if the Independents are forced for the time being to do business on a small margin of profit. There is no particular reason why the State Government should guarantee to the Independent Oil Dealers of this state, at least for the time being, fixed profits, especially in view of the fact that they were perfectly willing and were a party to take excessive profits from the people."

This clearly defines the position which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has maintained throughout this controversy.

Help Japan

ESTIMATES of the dead in Japan's earthquake disaster run to 300,000 at the present writing. The total may be more, if it is ever possible to count it. Literally millions are injured, and scores of cities have practically every home in ruins. No catastrophe in history perhaps, was on such a scale—certainly none in the modern world.

In the wake of the disaster follows the usual train of distresses that are inevitable concomitants of such a terrible upheaval. Food is short, for the services which bring food to the cities are destroyed. Medical relief is short, for the demands upon it are several hundred times more than normal, both for skill and material. It is almost a foregone conclusion that there will be an outbreak of some sort of pestilence, with all the safeguards of congested, civilized communities shattered at a blow.

President Coolidge, informed of the situation and sensing its terrific possibilities, has called upon the American people to contribute to a relief fund which shall give concrete expression to the pity and sympathy of this nation. That there will be a large outpouring of money one does not doubt—distress anywhere in the world on such a scale cannot fail to move a people which has been the pattern of generousity for the world for generations. But "he gives twice who gives quickly" in such an emergency as this. More is to be done—more can be done—in the first week of recovery to alleviate suffering and organize relief than in months to follow. Now, when the need is greatest, let us contribute.

We know La Crosse will back up the offers of help made by the president and by the American Red Cross. And that its giving may find an immediate channel to the field of action, The Tribune will undertake to handle any funds that may be contributed until other machinery is provided by the local Red Cross chapter or other authorized relief agencies. All moneys received will be sent at once to the Washington headquarters of the Red Cross, and due acknowledgment will be made in the newspaper.

So On, Forever

DOWN in Yucatan, southern Mexico, an army of Indians under the direction of scientists are digging up the palaces and temples of the ancient civilization of the Maya people. They lived more than 2,000 years ago and were sufficiently advanced to produce a race of artists.

The Indians have several years of digging ahead of them. Discoveries fascinating, possibly sensational, will be made. You'll read a lot about this digging job in the news between now and 1926. Chichen Itsa, chief city of the Mayas, was as large as Chicago is today. Thousands of years from now, future scientists may be digging out of mud and sand the remains of Chicago.

Over in England, Queen Mary finishes her famous doll's house. It's only 8 feet high. But the greatest English architect designed it. English artists painted tiny pictures to hang on its walls. Barrie and other writers wrote miniature books for its library. This doll house is to be passed on to future generations as a perfect record of a fine English home in 1923. It has modern plumbing, electric fittings, a garage housing wee autos perfect to the last detail—even a wine cellar with real hooch in small bottles.

No matter what may be dug up in the Maya ruins of Yucatan, it will seem crude alongside of devices of modern times. A lot of change comes in 2,000 years. And after another 2,000 years the doll house of Queen Mary will seem as crude as the Maya ruins seem today. Man is steadily improving himself toward an unknown but definite goal. Or maybe man is merely improving his equipment rather than his real self.

Chiropodists' convention says examine her feet before marrying. We say examine finger nails.

This world is so full of a number of things. Salem (Ore.) doctors found a glove in a man.

Act or Die

ITALY intends to withdraw from the League of Nations, it is reported, if the League acts according to the plain letter of the covenant in regard to the Greco-Italian quarrel. It will be a serious blow to the league should Italy withdraw. But it will be a less serious injury than the result of a "back-down" by the league at this juncture. The largest membership of the league is composed of small nations which in many conceivable situations might find themselves at the mercy of the larger powers. If these nations are to be shown, by the first serious test of the league's authority, that it dares not to take strong action against one of the major powers, the league might as well be dissolved immediately. It will have no authority left, and will be recognized the world around as a mere engine for enforcing the will of powerful nations upon smaller ones.

In a good cause Italy has overstepped the bounds of her own agreement, and broken the compact which the nations have set up among themselves as international law. Italy has a right to satisfaction and reparation from Greece. The killing of her emissaries was a dastardly crime which no one would expect her to suffer in silence. But in seizing Greek posessions and sending her warships to bombard Greek cities, Italy has plainly gone too far. There were other ways to bring Greece to a proper frame of mind, well within the limits of Italy's undertakings in the league. To defy the authority of the league after the preliminary mis-step is to make a bad matter worse, and to raise an issue against all of the civilized powers—the United States excepted—which is of vastly more importance than the quarrel with Greece.

The league must act—or die. It is most earnestly to be hoped that it will act, promptly and courageously. For if it shall fail at this crisis, the cause of world co-operation to keep the peace will have suffered a blow which may resign the people of the globe to war and militarism for generations to come.

RED ARROW MEN OF TWO STATES MEET IN GRAND RAPIDS

This Year's Convention Held in Michigan Expected to Draw Record Crowd

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—A gathering of former service men that is expected to exceed in numbers the convention a year ago in Madison, Wis., when 15,000 Red Arrow men met, opens here Wednesday when the fourth annual convention of the Red Arrow division gets under way. The convention closes Friday.

A special feature of the meeting calls for a military review before General John J. Pershing and several French high officials. Definite assurance of the presence of General Pershing at the convention has not been received, but officers of the Red Arrow organization expect their former commanding officer to attend if it is found possible by him to arrange his official duties to permit him to leave Washington.

The Red Arrow division was composed mostly of Michigan and Wisconsin men, and the convention alternates each year between the two states, Ohio which also has many Red Arrow division men, holds its own convention.

Information at convention headquarters today was that 25 bands will accompany the various delegations which are expected to arrive in great numbers tonight and early tomorrow. Already there is a noticeable influx of the former soldiers and special trains will begin pouring in the delegations from the larger cities early tomorrow. Many Wisconsin delegates are expected to arrive by boat from Milwaukee and Chicago.

Steamboat Excursions are drawing to a close. The last day trip of the season will be on September 8th to Lansing. Better come.—Advertisement.

CHILD WELFARE SPECIAL WILL SOON BE IN LA CROSSE COUNTY AND IN THIS CITY

La Crosse county is on the 1923 itinerary of the Child Welfare Special which will make stops in the county for child health conferences in scheduled places from Sept. 2 to Sept. 21. This is the second year of the activities of this motorized child health center which the state board of health sends to rural sections in the interest of a sturdier generation of citizens. It is obtained for this county through the efforts of local welfare organizations, who have volunteered active cooperation, and of the county nurse, whose means of doing follow-up work are absolutely essential to the plan's success.

The Special will again be in charge of Dr. Blanche Horner-Rivers, of the staff of the State Board of Health and of a trained nurse.

Mary Regan, county nurse also will be with the Special at all stops in the county. She will conduct the interview with mothers, do the weighing and measuring of babies, and otherwise assist. Motion pictures on public health themes will be shown evenings at scheduled places.

The big white car is especially made and equipped for child health conferences. It is warmed by a hot-water heating system, lighted by electricity, and supplied with plumbing and running hot water. Complete privacy in dressing rooms is assured.

Examinations are limited to babies and children of pre-school age. Children showing signs of illness, or even a severe cold, will not be received. In addition to the written report of the child's condition, each mother will be given practical, helpful literature.

Local physicians are invited to visit the Special while it is working in the community.

Mothers throughout the county may arrange with the local chairman for appointments for their children. All services of the Special are without charge, and children of pre-school age, rich or poor, are invited to share in the benefits of this modern system of extending health instruction to fields where the need is greatest.

The Special is one of the activities of the Bureau of Child Welfare of the State Board of Health, Mrs. Mary P. Morgan, director.

The health conditions and mortality rates for pre-school children and infants have been the subject of recent surveys. They show that while the death rate in the cities has been decreasing and general health conditions improving, conditions in the rural districts have remained unchanged. In the cities the favorable trend is ascribed to the modern system of health supervision. Mothers have access to health centers and profit by the work of various nursing organizations. It is held that families in the rural sections are as much entitled to skilled advice and help from physicians, nurses and health centers as city people. To bring these facilities to these families is the object of the Child Welfare Special.

In 1922 this vehicle visited thirteen counties, making 103 stops, only three of which were in towns of more than 1,000 population. Nearly 4,500 physical examinations of infants and pre-school children were made and their defects pointed out to parents. It is expected the parents will seek the help of the family physician or institute whatever other corrective measures may be called for. Comparatively few children examined were found without defects. Malnutrition was a large factor. Much of the work done with the Special is of an educational character that can hardly be listed but it gives an index to the health conditions in rural Wisconsin.

The Special will go from La Crosse to Crawford county and then to Vernon county.

Every morning—New Moon Coffee.

HINT BOOTLEGGERS STARTED FIRE IN WHITE STAR LINER

NEW YORK.—A theory that disgruntled bootleggers among its crew had set a fire in the hold of the steamship Mongolia to get even with a faction which had given prohibition agents a tip, was advanced after firemen had extinguished a smoky blaze in the hold. Officials of the White Star line, which operates the Mongolia, scouted the story, declaring the blaze probably was caused by spontaneous combustion.

You'll Get Rid of Blackheads Sure

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them.

To do this get two ounces of calonite powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The calonite powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

FOOD AND ORDER FIRST PROBLEMS OF STRICKEN JAPS

Millions Need Relief While Troops Mobilize to Stop Rioting

FIVE BILLION NEEDED TO REBUILD THE RUINS

Cities, Roads, Railways and Wires to be Built

OSAKA—By The Associated Press—The Japanese government is boldly facing three gigantic problems arising out of the greatest disaster in the history of Japan.

The first problem is that of providing food, shelter and clothes for more than two million people in Tokio and for many additional millions in the other cities and districts affected. The emergency commandeering act will enable the authorities to requisition necessary supplies and labor. The relief work is being organized throughout the nation.

Stop Looting and Rioting

The second problem is that of maintaining peace and order in Tokio and other cities, where already looting and violence are reported. Martial law has been invoked and other military measures have been adopted to cope with the situation.

The third problem is that of reconstructing the cities, the railways, roads and telegraph and telephone lines. It is estimated that at least one billion sterling will be required for this work.

The entire Japanese people are determined bravely to go through this unprecedented national trial.

Osaka is peaceful and quiet but the people here realize that the relief of millions of their compatriots and the saving of the empire largely depend upon them.

Koreans Riot

SHANGHAI. — Reports received here Tuesday said rioting menaced the destroyed Japanese cities. Two hundred Koreans driven from Tokio by soldiers enforcing martial law, procured arms in Hachioji, near the capital, and started a disturbance. The police were arming officials and citizens to cope with the situation, according to a Japanese news agency.

come a new era for the world—"Never again." An effort was made to realize ha well nigh universal hope, but for many reasons it has not met with success. The world has not moved forward, it has stood still. It is in serious danger of slipping backward.

By a marrelous combination of circumstances another dominant fact is created and made to stand forth vividly: Everywhere is it perceived that the one nation of the earth that now has the magic power of leadership to rescue the forward movement, save it, secure real and lasting peace, avert the disaster of complete retrogression to the old system out of which leaped the greatest tragedy the race of men ever knew, is America.

All these things came clearly before the eyes of the man in the White House. They stirred him deeply. But for a time consideration of these most impressive facts was diluted by his lifelong faith in the tradition that America should stand aloof, let other peoples work out their destiny as we have worked out ours. At this point Mr. Harding was just where you and I and millions more of hard-headed but red-blooded Americans would have been had we stood in his shoes.

Felt His Responsibility

Still the sense of responsibility was there, incessantly it surged and urged, it would not be silent. Sacred as the old tradition was to him, Mr. Harding was forced to analyze it, trace out its origin, appraise its present-day significance and worth. And in this process he came upon some very simple yet most surprising illuminating truths.

He found, of course, what we all know, that the policy was born in the infancy of our national life, had its origin in the most natural, rational way. Our forefathers were striving to create a nation with two outstanding ideals. One of these was democracy, government of the people for the people. The other was abhorence of dynasties resting on militaristic foundations, greed and arrogance their cheif motives, aggressions and wars their principal occupation, the masses ever their puppets and victims.

Such was the Europe of more than a century ago, the very antithesis of our fundamental American ideals. No wonder our forefathers were determined the European system of their day should not be extended to the western hemisphere, that America should have no entanglements in the intrigues and quarrels of such a Europe. We stood for democracy and peace, they represented autocracy and war. Thus came our policy of aloofness. We may well be proud that we adopted it. We were never ashamed of it, we are not ashamed of it now. For more than half a century no doubt it shielded all of this western world from invasion by the odious system of the Europe of that era.

Dynasties Things of Past

But what do we see when we look across the waters to the old world of our day? From all the nations of Europe, from virtually all the nations of the earth, absolutisms and dynasties have vanished, democracies have taken their place.

Thus one-half of the old-time system which our forefathers detested and which gave origin to our traditional policy has disappeared from the scene. In this important fundamental the world has at last come to the American ideal and adopted in principle the model which we long ago set up.

Nor is this all of the great picture which came before the mental vision of Mr. Harding in his duty-driven world survey. Though the peoples of Europe have rid themselves of dynasties and absolutisms, the heavy chains of militarism still hang about their necks, that part of the old system still burdens and menaces them.

But now they are eager to be rid of this also. The evil old thing persisting out of a dynastic past makes difficult the settlement of their inherited problems, bedevils and imperils their future. As long as it is permitted to live there it must live, more or less, everywhere, all civilization falls under its malign influence. No one knows when it may again involve all the world, America included, in another supreme tragedy.

The peoples of Europe, at present the most acute sufferers under the blight of this surviving relic of barbarism, seem unable to find relief by their own action. And today the democracies of the old world are looking with sad and wistful eyes toward the first and greatest of democracies while they say:

Need Aid of America

"We have come halfway to your American ideal in popular government. We want to come the other half. In the throwing off the tyranny of militarism. But we do not know how to do it. We have tried and failed. Can you not show us the way out of this wilderness? If so, we are ready to follow it, we will be grateful to you till the end of time."

Thus Mr. Harding reached his definite conclusion as to America's duty and his own. He saw that the march of events had destroyed the last vestige of need for our traditional policy. That need vanished when the conditions which created and justified it disappeared from the face of the earth. And in its stead has come an American duty and an American opportunity.

The world begs us to help it come further and all the way to our own standard of peace-loving democracies organized for peace preservation by a tossing of the last of the old medieval system into the bottomless pit.

And the late President asked himself this question:

"Can America close the door to this golden opportunity to bring all the world into conformance to the very ideals which for more than a century have been distinctively American—to make our civilization, henceforth exactly tha type of civilization the American people have always wanted it to be?"

WON'T AGREE TO INTERVENTION OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Britain Backs League

LONDON.—By The Associated Press.—Great Britain will go to the limit in supporting the covenant of the league of nations in the Greco-Italian imbroglio, it was stated on Monday in authoritative quarters. Lord Robert Cecil has been instructed at Geneva to support the covenant unreservedly.

The British attitude is to leave the question to the league until that body finally disposes of it.

Should the league fail to settle the difficulty, it is held, it will then be time for discussion of some other form of action.

May Ask Court Ruling

GENEVA.—By The Associated Press.—A member of the Italian delegation to the assembly of the league of nations Tuesday authorized the league secretaritt to deny that Italy had ever officially repudiated the competency of the league to handle the Greco-Italian crisis.

"We are awaiting the return of Major Giuriati from Rome and then we will determine our final official attitude," said the Italian spokesman to a member of the secretariat.

"Personally I think it is likely we may ask the permanent court of international justice to pass upon the competency of the league."

International Trouble in Greece

ROME.—By The Associated Press.—A counter revolutionary republican movement is under way in Greece, says a dispatch Tuesday. The movement is gaining ground despite drastic measures taken by the government, including the immediate arrest of all suspects and the confiscation of arms, the dispatch says. The followers of the late King Constantine's party are said to be preparing for action.

Athens is completely isolated and the Greek government is allowing no reports concerning the "grave internal situation" to be sent from the capital, says the dispatch.

As an indication of the drift of public opinion, the dispatch says the tomb of Colonel Gounaris, who was executed by the revolutionary government last November is constantly covered with flowers, in strong contrast to its previous neglected appearance.

Greece Denies Revolt

LONDON—The Greek legation here Tuesday emphatically denied Italian reports of serious internal troubles in Greece. The latest telegrams from Athens, it was said, indicate that coplete order prevails throughout the country.

RICHARDS, WIZARD, AMAZES LA CROSSE; ANSWERS FLOOD OF TRIBUNE READERS' QUERIES

Richards

Another flood of letters greeted Richards, "The Wizard," at the office of The Tribune yesterday and the questions are coming in from all parts of the country. About 1,000 letters had been received up to noon Monday in response to an invitation issued to readers to submit questions through The Tribune. Richards opened a week engagement at the La Crosse theatre Monday night with the most wonderful performances of this nature that has been seen in La Crosse for several years. He has a whale of a big show that contains magic, music, comedy, sensational surprises and a very elaborate display of scenery and costumes and nicely enhanced by catchy music from the symphony orchestra. During the mental portion of the performance, Richards easily demonstrated his superiority over any mind reader that has been to La Crosse and due to this fact every one should take advantage of The Tribune's offer to have this great mystic answer questions brought through these columns. Just send in your questions to Richards "The Wizard," care of The Tribune and then whatch for your answer. Sign your full correct name and address to the question, but only your initials will be used in the published answer. If your quesion is not here today look for it tomorrow, as additional installments will appear every day this week. Following is the first installment.

H. R.—What has become of my book of addresses?

Ans—You will find it among some booklets and other papers in a drawer in your wife's dresser.

T. C. S.—Will my recent investment in real estate prove as profitable as I anticipate?

Ans—You will have to hold this property at least two years to realize the amount desired.

J. M. R.—Which of the two men should I marry and when?

Ans.—Do not marry either one as there would be no happiness for you with either. Wait until next year and you will have an opportunity for marriage that will be very successful.

M. M. R.—Should I go to college?

Ans.—Give up your idea for the present about wanting to get married, go to school. It will mean much more to you later in life.

C. W.—Can you give me the present address of my aunt Fannie who is supposed to be living in Chicago?

Ans.—You can reach her at 1350 N. Dearborn Ave that city.

J. P. B.—Will I be called back to former place where my family is and will I get steady employment?

Ans.—I advise you to stay here and later bring your family here. You will only get a small percentage of the money from the bank that was closed up.

F. M.—Give me names of the two women my husband has been going out with and should I apply for a divorce?

Ans.—I cannot mention the names of these women in the newspaper as they are two well known locally, but if you will bring your question to the ladies only matinee Friday will be glad to give you their names and full particulars from the stage. Your husband is quite "friendly" with the small dark one but there is no need for divorce as you can settle your difficulty without trouble. Your future is favorable.

T. K.—Will my mother ever get well?

Ans.—A change of treatment will greatly help your mother, although I am sorry to say she never will have normal health again.

G. A. M.—I have misplaced the deed to some property in North Dakota. Can you tell me where it is?

Ans.—Look among some old newspapers and other periodicals that you have put away in the pantry and you will find the deed. Such papers should be properly taken care of.

M. S. A.—Will my next child be a boy or a girl and when?

Ans.—It will be a girl the last week of this coming January.

C. W.—Please give me the present address of my uncle Jesse whom we have not seen for nearly six years.

Ans.—He is now living at 1251 East 113th Street, Cleveland, Ohio.

E. J. F.—How much am I going to realize on my oil and mining stocks?

Ans.—I advise you to hold onto your mining stocks for another two years and you will then start to receive dividends, but your oil stocks are absolutely worthless.

G. E. H.—Please tell me what became of the $5 missing from my dresser drawer. Is it lost or stolen?

Ans.—Your brother, who has been out of work, took the money to pay a small debt that was pressing him. He will pay you back later.

J. M. P.—When should I get married?

Ans.—I would not advise you to marry for at least two more years if you would have lasting happiness.

G. S.—How much will I make on my oil stocks?

Ans.—Nothing. They are absolutely worthless.

G. T. L.—Where are my large sewing shears? Were they stolen?

Ans.—You will find them under the back porch of your home where your little boy left them after playing with them a few days ago. They have been badly damaged by the weather.

S. K. K.—Will my sweetheart get his divorce and marry me? Does he really love me?

Ans.—I advise you to drop this man as he will not be able to marry you and if you continue as you are you will both get into very serious trouble. Don't be too liberal with your affections.

M. D.—My sister ran away and got married six months ago and has never written us. Where did she go to?

Ans.—The man she ran away with neglected to marry her. She is no longer with him, but living at 3015 Commonwealth Ave Detroit, Mich.

E. J.—Who will I marry. When will I marry and will he always love me.

Ans.—I advise you to marry the young man who took you to the picture theater last Friday night. They will be a fairly happy marriage. You will marry in about seven or eight weeks if you grant him a little proper encouragement. He will love you as much as the average man loves one woman.

This is Richards' last answer today, but additional installments will appear every day this week and if you have not already sent in your question do so at once or you may be too late to receive an answer through the Tribune. Richards also answers questions at the La Crosse theater during the mindreading part of his big show of wonders thrills, music and mystery or private question blanks may be had at the theatre ticket office.

PALMER, SHISLER UP IN COUNTY COURT ON LIQUOR CHARGES

Alderman is Examined First of Charges of Illegal Possession and Sale

ALDERMAN HARRY PALMER and his partner in "The Alderman's Grocery," Clarence Shisler, were examined in county court Tuesday, before Justice Clarence T. Weber, sitting in place of County Judge Brindley, on two charges of illegal possession and illegal sale of liquor.

After two hours of examination the case of Palmer was adjourned at noon until 2 p. m. The alderman's case is being handled by A. E. Bleekman and L. J. Brody, who is acting in place of Frank E. Withrow, who is out of the city. District Attorney Gordon is prosecuting the cases for the state.

Liquor Not on His Lot

The alderman's defense is that the liquor seized by Federal Prohibition Agents Nansted and Hanshert in its cache in a doghouse in the rear of the grocery store, was not on his property, while the search warrant called for a search of the property at 110 Main street, occupied by Palmer and Shisler.

Agent Nansted testified that they were in "The Alderman's Grocery" on August 15 and that they asked for "a shot of moon." A person called George by the agents, went to the rear of the place, opened the screen door, got down on his hands and knees, crept partly out of the door and around the corner, then backed into the barroom with a bottle of diluted alcohol in his hand. The agents were served a drink of liquor. Two days later the agents returned to "The Grocery" with a search warrant. Nansted went to the rear door where he had seen "George" kneeling. He said there was a doghouse within three or four feet of the door.

Palmer, who was there when the raid was being made, said "Look out, there's a bulldog in that house," Nansted restified. But that didn't deter Nansted, who said he kicked over the doghouse and extracted the bottle of hooch from the interior of said house.

Louis Clark, fisherman, testified that he cared for the alderman's dogs and that the doghouse was about 30 feet from the rear door of "The Grocery." When the alderman took the stand a few minutes later he said the doghouse was several feet from the door and that it was over the lot line of his premises and on the premises occupied by W. J. Skok. Mr. Skok said the doghouse was some distance to the east of the rear door of his place.

As the defense desired to call more witnesses who were not available at that moment the second charge, a revival of the case of May 17, was then taken up.

Mr. Brody of the defense asked that the case be adjourned as Federal Agent Schultz who swore to the search warrant was not present and the defense wished to question him. Mr. Gordon desired to continue with the case, despite Mr. Schultz' absence, saying, "We have had more trouble over this case than any 40 other liquor cases put together." Justice Weber overruled the motion and ordered the examination to proceed.

Federal Agent Schaeffer testified to the seizure of a quart bottle about a third full of diluted alcohol. The bottle was found under the bar. State Prohibition Chemist Lampert testified that the liquor was grain alcohol, diluted with water and that the mixture was about 42 per cent alcohol by volume.

SKELETON FOUND IN HOG PASTURE NEAR GAYS MILLS

Scattered Bones in Hog Yard Only Evidence for Authorities to Work on

THE skeleton of an unidentified man was found on Monday on the Tully farm five miles north of Mount Sterling, near Gays Mills. According to reports received here, there is no clue to the man's identity, and no way to tell how long he had been dead or how he met his death.

A bad odor in the neighborhood finally led to an investigation, and a search revealed a skull and scattered bones in a hog pasture. Most of the bones were discovered about six rods from the main highway, state trunk number 27. The bones had been stripped clean of flesh by the hogs in the yard.

A few articles of clothing consisting of a pair of good shoes with rubber heels, a necktie, collar and corduroy trousers, were scattered about the pasture, but gave no clue to the man's identity.

J. S. Earle, county attorney of Crawford county, Sheriff Oscar Stevenson and Coroner Holly removed the bones to Prairie du Chien Monday afternoon. They are working on the case in an effort to solve the mystery, but so far have been unable to reach a solution. No one is reported missing from the neighborhood of the farm where the bones were discovered.

The only theories advanced are that the man may have wandered into the hog yard and died, or that he had died or been killed elsewhere and had been thrown into the yard by passing automobilists.

BATTLE STAGED ON LAKE FRONT FOR G. A. R. VETERANS

Entertainment, With a Little Business, Marks Day's Program at Milwaukee Meet

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Lake trips, a little business and an evening of entertainment marked the activities of the members of the G. A. R. and auxiliary bodies in annual convention here Tuesday.

During the morning committees met for a short time, but adjourned before noon to enable their members to board the Christopher Columbus, one of the largest pleasure boats on the lakes, for a swing out through the bay.

The Christopher Columbus carries 2,000 passengers and is scheduled for five trips during the day.

Every veteran was supplied with comfortable sleeping quarters Monday night, the housing committee reported.

A special appeal has been made to automobile owners for transporting the veterans to the evening lake shore entertainment. A large display of fire works, combined with a sham battle in which twelve companies of Wisconsin National guard, fully equipped, will demonstrate the usages of modern warfare in an attempt to prevent the landing of a complement of four submarine chasers, which arrived here for the "invasion."

RIOT OCCURS AS LA CROSSE NELSONS DEFEAT DAHL'S FORDS

ERRATIC DECISION OF UMPIRE SAFFORD PRECIPITATES RIOT

Throngs Storm on Field as Byers is Called Out at First Base

UMPIRE SAFFORD USHERED TO AUTOMOBILE BY POLICE

Final Score of Game is Three to One

It was a wild hullabaloo at Copeland park Monday afternoon.

The center of attraction was the ball game between the La Crosse Nelsons and the Dahl's Fords, conquerors of the All Stars the day before. The La Crosse Nelsons won, 3 to 1.

Big Benn pitched for the Fords. He allowed six hits.

Outside of that La Crosse baseball fans took a hand in the game and threatened to participate in the battle in the form of mobbing Umpire Joe Safford, whose decision in calling first baseman Byers out at first in the eighth inning precipitated a riot.

Decision on Byers

There were two men out and Hults had reached first on a walk. Byers hit a roller down half way between the pitchers box and first base. Woll took the grounder and threw to Fitzke, who in the meantime raced to first to score the put out. It was the unanimous impression with possibly one exception, of reporters and city officials having a bird's-eye view in the press box, that Fitzke over-stepped the bag before the ball was caught and that contrary to Umpire Safford's decision, the runner should have been called safe.

> An excited woman fan sat in the grandstand at the ball game Sunday, yelling at the top of her voice every time Fitzke walked to the mound, "Take me out! Take me out!" A man sitting near stood it about as long as he could, then jumped up, took her by the arm and said, "Alright, kid, where shall we go?"

And that's where the trouble began. Fans sensed that the decision was unfair and bolted in one solid mass toward the wired enclosure of the stand. Women became hysterical, men yelled and protested and threatened to storm the field while blue-coated officers of the law—and there were several there—rushed to the field to quiet the disorderly mob. In the midst of it all, an elderly man drew his coat about his waist, and with motioning hands, attempted to lead a mob that looked like five hundred onto the field. He was forced to retreat, and the mob slowly backed up until it was again absorbed in the less excited multitudes draped over the fence in right field.

Mob Organizes

In the east stands—and that was where the mob organized with one front—fans clawed the wire and stamped until the structure fairly reeled. A woman neatly dressed in a black silk dress, sprang out from the throng inside the fence in right field and with emphatic gestures and tongue expressed her opinion of Safford's decision. The riot continued from the ball park to the street, and two women whose names were unknown, attempted to settle their differences in a hair-pulling match.

Umpire Safford was escorted to his automobile by three police while in front and on both sides, and behind trailed a booing mob of men and women. The police accompanied Umpire Safford in his automobile to his home.

It was the most excitement Copeland park has seen.

But talking about the ball game, it was a brilliant exhibition and it was unfortunate that the decision came as it did to mar the play.

The Fords fought like demons to hold in check their opponents whose years of experience in baseball was bound to turn the victory.

Score in Fourth

The Fords scored first in the fourth inning. Martello started with a base on balls. He stole second base and went third on a wild pitch. Christofer, sent up, struck out, and Troyanek grounded out. Voss lined to Walters, who muffed and Martello raced to the plate for the count.

The Nelsons came back in their half and tied the score on a two base hit by Schaefer, a walk and an error by Troyanek on Coughlin's grounder to third. They scored twice in the fifth on two hits, a hit batsman and a sacrifice. Walters was struck by a pitched ball over the heart. He was stunned for a time, but came back to play in the next inning. Till ran for him.

Bobby Fitzke was careful on the mound to avoid any injury. He pitched a no hit game. Big Benn hurled a brilliant game for the Dahl's Fords, allowing the Nelsons six hits. He has straightened his affairs with Manager Satek.

SAFFORD ADMITS DECISION AT FIRST WAS WRONG; SAYS HE IS THROUGH WITH GAME

Joe Safford has announced his intention of retiring from baseball as a result of the mix-up at the game on Monday, and Hank Wittenberg, business manager of the Nelsons asserted in an interview Tuesday morning that he had called off negotiations for a brace of games here on Thursday and Friday with the Dubuque team because of the attitude of fans in the Labor Day contest with the Dahl Fords.

The following is the statement made by Umpire Safford Tuesday morning to a representative of the Tribune:

Safford's Statement

"To the fans—

"I take advantage of this opportunity offered me by the Tribune to make a statement concerning my decision in calling Byers out at first base in the eighth inning of the Nelson-Dahl Ford baseball game at Copeland Park Monday afternoon. After consideration of the decision I was convinced that the man was safe, but under the circumstances it was impossible for me to change my decision.

"I regret very much the turn of affairs and am sorry that a decision of mine should cause so much trouble. I wish to announce to baseball fans and to the public in general that I am through with baseball as far as umpiring is concerned. I am determined not to umpire another game.

Signed

J. C. SAFFORD.

In discussing the statement Joe said that he would have been willing to change his decision, for after consideration he thought Byers was safe, but that under the circumstances and considering the excited condition of the fans, he thought that to change it would have made matters much worse. At any rate, Joe is through.

Satek's Statement

Jack Satek, Nelson playing manager, who is blamed by many of the Ford rooters for starting the trouble when he waved his team back to the bench when they wanted to give the decision to the Fords, said that he merely inquired of Safford what his decision was and when Safford said he was out, he took his team off the playing field. Satek said he was under the impression that the man was out and merely wanted a statement from Safford.

Safford had changed his decision to safe, but reconsidered and let his original ruling stand.

Satek said, and he was corroborated by Manager Wittenberg and others of the team, that the Nelsons took the field with the agreement that there was to be no disputing of decisions.

TRI-STATES TAKE SECOND GAME FROM KOLBO SHOES, 5-4

Games in Series Between Two Clubs Stand Even; Next Game Sunday

The Tri-State Ice Cream baseball team won the second game of the series with the Kolbo Shoes Monday, 5-4 in ten innings.

The game was a hard fought contest with both teams fighting to the finish. The Kolbos could not stop the slugging of the Tri-Staters. Ward, new hurling ace of the Tri-States, pitched masterful ball, allowing the Kolbos only seven hits, while the Tri-Staters collected sixteen hits off Neuman and Affeldt. Affeldt, the husky southpaw of the Kolbos tried to pull his team through to victory after Neuman failed, but the hitting of the Tri-Staters could not be stopped.

"Jack" Dunham and "Fritz" Frey were the leading batsmen, "Jack" getting two hits out of four trips to the plate, one a home run, and the other a double. "Fritz" collected three hits out of five times at bat, a triple and two singles.

Daloto, leading Kolbo batsman, collected two hits out of five times at bat.

Both of these teams are of amateur rank and play good clean baseball. Each team has won a game and the tie will be played off next Sunday morning at the West avenue diamond. A large crowd is expected as it will be a fight until the last ball is pitched.

Smevog will probably be selected to do the mound work for the Tri-State while Affeldt will probably do the hurling for the Kolbos.

The score:

CALEDONIA DEFEATS SPRING GROVE, 4 TO 0, IN HOLIDAY GAME

Score One in Sixth and Three in the Ninth to Defeat Grovers

Winkenwerder pitched masterful ball for his club, holding Spring Grove to four scattered hits while his mates clouted eight off Erickson.

Centerfielder Hundt's stab of Grebin's fly in the second inning of the game was a feature. Hundt ran deep into center, jumped over scattered spectators and pulled the fly down from amidst a row of parked automobiles.

Caledonia scored first in the sixth, Merlo starting off with a single over second. Smith threw wild to first on Hundt's grounder, Merlo going to third and Hundt to second. Merlo scored on Blexrud's sacrifice fly. Haus flyed out.

In the ninth Caledonia pushed over three runs for safety. Haus hit to right and went to third on Farr's double. Qualey whiffed. Ryan hit to the box, and was out at first. Eiken hit to left, scoring Haus. Winkenwerder walked. Merlo dropped a timely double into the garden, scoring Farr and Eiken.

AMERICA RETAINS DAVIS CUP; TRIUMPH OVER AUSTRALIANS

Johnston and Tilden Win Easily in Singles Played on Monday

CRUSH HAWKES, ANDERSON FOR HISTORIC EMBLEM

Capture Matches by Margin of Four Series to One

FOREST HILLS, N. Y.—By The Associated Press.—The Davis cup, historic emblem of international supremacy is safe in Uncle Sam's custody for another year. Putting to route the opposition that had proved so startingly formidable in the first two days of play, America swept to victory Monday afternoon over the Australians in the final two singles contests and captured the series by a margin of four matches to one.

Displaying a marked reversal of the form he showed in going down to defeat before James O. Anderson, last Friday, William M. Johnston clinched the trophy for the United States when he smothered John B. Hawkes in the opening match, 6—0, 6—2, 6—1. William T. Tilden made it a clean sweep for the day when he conquered Anderson, the Australian captain, 6—2, 6—3, 1—6, 7—5, in match that failed to come up to the expectations held out for this struggle between the "aces" of the opposing forces.

13,000 See Matches

The crushing character of America's closing victories came as a distinct anti-climax to the gruelling spectacular play in the first two days of the challenge round. The gallery of 13,000 that taxed the capacity of the big West Side club's stadium had come expecting a last desperate stand on the part of the Australians, who had proved so unexpectedly powerful in dividing the first two singles encounters and forcing the doubles match on Saturday to five terrific, record breaking sets before bowing to defeat.

But they were doomed to disappointment. At no stage of Monday's play was there the least uncertainty of the outcome, for the mastery of both Johnston and Tilden was complete at practically every step of both matches. The Antipodeans made their last fight gallantly, but ineffectually, and thus, for the second successive year, they made their 12,000 mile journey from "down under" in vain.

This year's victory gained by the same margin as that over Australia a year ago, put the United States into the lead in total number of victories since the Davis cup first was put into competition in 1900. America now has won it seven times, Australia six, and the British isles five.

The convincing ease with which Tilden, outside of the third set, conquered Anderson was altogether unexpected, after the tall Australian's smashing victory over Johnston and his brilliant play in the doubles.

Tilden Has Anderson Helpless

For two sets, Tilden, the wizard, the master shotmaker, had his opponent helpless in the face of a withering, relentlessly accurate attack. Tilden had everything. His cannonball service was invincible; he drove Anderson from side to side with forehand and backhand shots that streaked across the court, and his mixture of pace had the Australian completely at sea. Anderson was wild and his service was far from its usual effectiveness, but against such amazing opposition he was helpless.

Then an incident, one of the most unusual recorded in international play, occurred suddenly to change the complexion of the match. Tilden's final point in the ninth game of the second set, a cross court shot, seemed several inches out to the gallery, though it was ruled a placement for the American champion. The crowd, however, voiced vigorous disapproval of the decision and called for a replay. Both players, nonplussed by the situation, offered to do so, but the referee ruled otherwise and the third set was begun amid another noisy outburst.

The demonstration so nettled the temperamental American that he virtually tossed the third set away with his listless work. Excepting the third game, when he broke through Anderson's service, Tilden let down in all departments of his play, allowing many of Anderson's drives to whistle past without the least effort to get his racquet on them. Anderson thus walked away with his "gift" set with ridiculous ease, taking the first two games without the loss of a point and breaking through Tilden's service three times.

Hawkes Outclassed

Hawkes' downfall at the hands of Johnston served only as additional proof of the fact that the left hander's chief forte is in doubles play. Against the withering speed of Johnston's forehand drives, the matchless position plan and machine like accuracy of the little Californian's game, the Australian was outclassed. No better evidence of Johnston's complete mastery can be given than the fact that Hawkes tallied only five earned points in the entire match, while the American scored 31.

ALL-STARS TAKE SECOND CONTEST AT GALESVILLE, 4 TO 1

MEINERT MAKES SPECTACULAR CATCH IN CENTER FIELD

Hoover Given Excellent Support on Monday

The La Crosse All-Stars defeated the Galesville Club before a large crowd attending the Labor Day Picnic at Galesville Monday afternoon, thereby making it two wins out of three games played on the Galesville diamond this season.

Hoover, the youthful hurler for the All-Stars, although pitching 6 innings the day before, insisted on going into the game again, and threw a splendid game, keeping the hits garnered off his delivery well scattered excepting in the 9th when Galesville threatened to win the game. In this inning, the first three men singled, filling the bases with none out. Brey, the fourth man up who previously had hit safely in three consecutive attempts, hit to Hooper who forced Toppen out at the plate, and Tanke completed a double play by throwing Brey out at first. Oliver then flied out to Shimshak, ending the game. Hoover retired 11 men by the strike-out route, while Brey had 9 strike-outs to his credit. In the 4th inning Hoover struck out three men in succession and the first man up for Galesville in the fifth also struck out giving Hoover four consecutive strike-outs.

The All-Stars were accorded the best of treatment at Galesville, both from the fans as well as the umpire, in fact, there was no a single occasion for questioning the Umpire's decisions on the part of either team.

Meinert, playing center field for Galesville made one of his usual spectacular catches off of Tanke's bat in the initial inning, while Krause and Falk also made brilliant catches in the outfield for the All-Stars. The La Crosse club accorded Hoover the best of support, only one error being chalked up for the All-Stars, when Shimshak after making a brilliant stop on a ball hit over the 3rd sack, threw wild to first.

G. O. P. CONVENTION TO BE HELD IN CHICAGO IN 1924

NEW YORK.—Frederick W. Upham, treasurer of the republican national committee, said there was no question but that Chicago would be the scene of the 1924 republican convention, and he predicted that President Coolidge would be nominated to succeed himself if he chooses to be a candidate and has a chance to demonstrate his ability. Mr. Upham said he believed the most formidable candidates to be Senator La Follette and Senator Hiram Johnson.

"THE CHEAT"

If a responsive audience is a comment upon the merits of a picture, the enthusiasm with which the Monday patrons of the Rivoli theatre met Poli Negri's excellent acting in "The Cheat," indicated its popularity. Supported by Jack Holt and Charles de Roche, Poli Negri offers the most appealing role of her career in this American society drama. The theme of the extravagant and beautiful young wife led into financial complications by a rival of her husband is so clothed in arresting detail as to become original. Magnificent scenes, striking lighting effects and gorgeous interiors are a continuous background for the action. Charles de Roche, as a picturesquely sinister villain, is a discriminating and effective actor. Jack Holt as the likeable business man husband adds a necessary touch of normality.

CASINO TODAY

A pow-wow with real Indians is one of the touches of color in the production, "The Rapids," from the powerful story by Alan Sullivan, at the Casino theatre today.

One of the outstanding features of the vivid drama is its realism, and the director, determined to overlook no detail which would add to the effect desired. Hence when the scenario called for Indians, he was not satisfied with make-believe or musical comedy Indians, but made it a point to secure the real thing. Inasmuch, as the picture was produced in a sparsely settled section of Canada where there are still Indians, he did not have as much difficulty in providing Indians as was at first anticipated.

"MIDNIGHT GUEST"

A picture that tells an important truth as well as entertains comes to the Majestic Theater today and Wednesday. It is "The Midnight Guest."

"The Midnight Guest" is based on an original story written by Rupert Julian.

It is a story of humanity. There are three principal characters who are commonly known. One is the confirmed cynic who believes in nothing, another is the optimist who believes only in good and refuses the claim of evil and evil thought, while the third is the commonest victim of evil thought, and the cynic's slander, the woman of misfortune.

Beautiful Grace Darmond was chosen to play the woman's role as being the most typical of the spirit of defiant and yet wistful femininity. Mahlon Hamilton will be seen as the cynic while Clyde Fillmore interprets the optimist's character.

Farmers near railroads should paint their cows a bright red.

REPORTED YANKEE CONSUL KILLED AT YOKOHAMA

WASHINGTON.—The report from Shanghai that the American consul general at Yokohama had been killed in the earthquake disaster was thought by state department officials to refer to Max D. CYLINDER REGRINDING

GRIND YOUR CYLINDER—WHY?

Because you know that when an automobile comes from the maker the engine has true, ROUND CYLINDERS. You also know that as soon as you start to run your ENGINE wear takes place in the CYLINDER. Unfortunately the wear is not UNIFORM, and is only a question of time when your CYLINDERS are out of round and taper. Your engine pumps oil, fouls plugs, develops a knock or piston slap or consumes oil and gasoline out of proportion to the service rendered. Therefore you cannot correct the error simply by changing pistons and rings. To overcome these troubles your CYLINDERS must be REGROUND and fitted with oversize pistons and rings. Then you will have an ENGINE the same as what you got from the maker.

FORD SPECIAL—Ford cylinders reground and fitted with oversize pistons, wrist pins, bushings and rings, complete, $16.00.

BUSINESS CHANCES

WOULD you like to make some big money; some real money? Would you like to get in on an agency that has all the earmarks of making money like the Ford Motor Co., agents have made who were lucky enough to get the agencies? We are manufacturing a wonderful little ice and refrigerator machine that is a proven success and which makes ice and refrigeration at a cost of less than ten cents a hundred pounds. The machine has no moving parts, requires no power, nothing to get out of order and which can be made any size. This machine is low in price, and is suitable for dairymen, grocers, butchers and farmers. We have planned to market these machines a great deal like automobiles are marketed, and are looking for distributers who can finance themselves to the extent of one to five thousand dollars, according to amount of territory covered. INDIANS REOPEN LAND SUIT

SUPERIOR, Wis.—John, Peter and Elizabeth Lemieux, descendants of Frank Lemieux, former chief of the Lake Superior band of Chippewa Indians, have reopened their suit to recover Wisconsin Point, the original home of their forefathers from the Agate Land company. The plaintiffs ask a clear title from the land company and ask that the plot be vacated. The action was first started in October, 1919, and again tried in June, 1920. The surviving members of the family in their petition claim that the land is rightfully theirs because their ancestors settled here.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK—The depressing influence of the Greco-Italian dispute and the Japanese disaster which adversely affected the London financial markets Monday, was extended Tuesday to the local stock market, which displayed a heavy tone at the opening. Losses of a point or more were established on initial sales by Bethlehem Steel, American Can, American Agricultural Chemical preferred and Colorado Fuel.

Additional selling orders forced losses of one to two and one-quarter points in Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific, Baldwin and Gulf States Steel, but the market soon turned upward in response to active bidding for Davison Chemical which advanced four points to forty and Mack Truck which rose three. Gains of one to one and one-half points also were established by May Department Stores, General Electric, Du Pont, Punta Alegre Sugar, Beech Nut Packing, Wilson Packing and Nickel Plate. The feature of the foreign exchange market was the creation of new low records for the year by demand sterling at $4.53⅜ and German marks at seven cents a million.

The closing was weak. Additional weak spots were uncovered by bear traders in the late dealings, largely among the ordinary inactive shares. Sales approximated 550,000 shares.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Ill.—Influenced chiefly by an advance in Liverpool quotations, wheat prices here averaged a little higher Tuesday during the early dealings. Traders were disposed to associate the Liverpool advance with reports that France had accepted in principle German suggestions of an economic accord between the two countries. Trade here was of moderate volume. The opening, which varied from unchanged figures to ½c higher, with September $1.02⅜ to $1.02½ and December $1.06¾ to $1.07, was followed by something of a sag and then by slight gains.

Subsequently a decided increase of the visible supply total had a bearish influence, so, too, did absence of export demand.

Scantiness of immediate supplies tended to lift the price of September corn, but favorable crop reports made the later months easy. After opening at ⅛c decline to 1⅛c advance, December 68½ to 68⅝c, the market underwent a moderate setback from the initial range.

Later the corn market sympathized with wheat weakness. The close was unsettled, ranging from ⅝c net decline to ¾c advance, with December 67⅞ to 68c.

Oats paralleled the action of corn, starting ¼ to ⅜c higher, December 40⅛c and later showing some loss.

Provisions averaged a little higher in line with hog values.

CO-OPERATIVES NEED COMPETENT MANAGEMENT

GRUMBLERS who are disposed to criticise co-operatives for employment of high salaried managers and officials may find food for thought in the following statement of Edward Nordman, commissioner of markets of the state department of agriculture:

"Farmers' co-operative associations, as a rule, have some of the strongest competition in the world. To succeed against such strong competition these farm organizations must be well-managed. In the long run this management will not be good, and will not be equal to that of private undertakings with which the farmers are competing unless the farmers have some regard for the salaries to which the operators of their business concerns are entitled. Of course we are all agreed that the people in charge of farmers' co-operative organizations must have other incentives than salary. Nevertheless, if farmers think they can get the required services for the operation of their business enterprises on the loyalty basis alone, and that they do not have to meet the competition of private interests in this respect, they are sure to be disappointed.

"We all know that there are able men who make great personal sacrifices for the sake of principles in which they believe. Such men will sometimes work for a bare living to put across an idea in which they have faith. But the supply of such men is not equal to the demand. As a rule, ability has to be paid for and farmers will do well to keep this fact in mind.

"The success of farmers' co-operative enterprises in the future—as in the past—will depend upon the way in which these enterprises are managed. Good management as a whole is going to cost farmers as much as other people. Unless they are willing to pay equally well for such management, there is small hope for co-operative business ventures succeeding. Of course it has happened in the past—and it is likely to happen again—that men are employed by farmers' organizations at good salaries and it turns out that a mistake has been made in sizing up their men.

"Many of the largest and most successful farmers' co-operative organizations in this country have already learned the lesson of good management and have secured it for themselves at the necessary cost. A salary of from $10,000 to $25,000 per year for the management of farmers' co-operative organizations is a common thing in this country and since such compensation is continued from year to year it must be a paying proposition or the membership would object to it.

"So far as the co-operative organizations of the state of Wisconsin are concerned, with only two exceptions $5,000 is the largest salary that has ever been paid for this class of service. It will thus be seen that Wisconsin is paying low salaries for its farmers' co-operative management as compared with other states of the Union.

"There is no need to worry about the farmers in Wisconsin paying the men employed to manage their business enterprise too large a salary. The danger is in the other direction—namely, that they will pay too little and because of the fact secure incompetent management for their business enterprises."

PEGGY KEITH, 15, IS CALLED UNCLE SAM'S BEST FARM GIRL

PEGGY KEITH ON THE FARM

BY HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Uncle Sam's prize farm girl is Peggy Keith, aged 15, of Farquier county, Virginia.

So well does Uncle think of Peggy and her accomplishments that he is taking her and some samples of her farm products all the way to Springfield Mass., where they will be shown at the Eastern States Exposition of boys and girls club work at Camp Vail, September 16-23.

What Peggy has accomplished will be held up as an example of what ambitious girls and boys can do when they mix brains with energy and enthusiasm, and as a lesson to older folks on the advantages of adopting modern practices in agriculture and home economics.

Starting as a member in girls' club work in 1916, at the age of 8, Peggy has climbed to the top in seven years. And as a visible product of her efforts can show a herd of 20 fine Shetland ponies, blooded Guernsey cows and bulls, prize-winning chickens, blue-ribbon collies and a stock of health and enthusiasm that would be worth millions in Wall Street.

Plants Corn, Too

Peggy's first venture in agriculture was made as a member of the county potato club in 1916. She planted a small patch and worked it herself, with fair results. The biggest gain was in deeply rooting her enthusiasm for club work.

The next year she joined a corn club and put in a whole acre of corn. Things were coming fine. She had plowed and worked the land herself, and the hardest of the cultivation was past when cattle broke into the field and played havoc with the prospects. Next year, however, she had better luck and harvested 75 bushels of corn from her acre.

In 1919, at the age of 11, Peggy signed up with a canning club. She grew a tenth of an acre of tomatoes and canned and picked enough of the product to feed the family over the winter.

So successful was she in her canning operations that her fruit and vegetables for two successive years pulled down the prizes, in the open classes, for canned goods at the Farquier county fair.

Craved Work

It was the outdoors, however, that appealed most to Peggy. She looked for a year-round agricultural interest and found it in livestock.

From one setting of eggs she has developed a flock of 100 standard bred Langshams and Rhode Island Red chickens.

She joined the baby beef club and in 1919 grew two fine Shorthorn beeves, which she tended and fed according to methods advocated by the Department of Agriculture. In 1920, with a better knowledge of selecting her stock, she made a profitable business out of baby beef. In 1921 here Hereford beef calf won first prize at the Richmond State Fair, gaining 400 pounds in a short feeding period.

Peggy now plunged into the study of livestock in earnest. She took a course in livestock judging at the Virginia Agricultural College and soon could tell the good points of her animals as well as much more experienced judges. In a competition among club members, she was selected as Virginia's representative in an international livestock judging contest.

Peggy proves that bobbed hair and knickers do not necessarily denote the flapper, for certainly no one would accuse her of flapperism. But for the active, outdoor life she leads she finds the bifurcated garb and short hair both more practicable and pleasant than plaited braids and swishing skirts.

CHEESE FATCORY'S PARENT PLANT WAS A KITCHEN STOVE

Mrs. C. V. West, Hillsboro, Ore., Starts Cottage Cheese Industry in Kitchen

HILLSBORO, Ore.—Mrs. C. V. West of Hillsboro is the only person in the country who has a factory exclusively for making a pot, or cottage cheese.

She started making the product on her kitchen stove. Her son peddled it to the neighbors in a tin bucket. Presently its fame spread to Portland, and her first shipment there was met at the station by a small boy with a toy wagon. Later came a horse and delivery wagon, and now each shipment is awaited in Portland by three large motor trucks, plus an additional truck for the milk.

MRS. C. V. WEST

Something of an accomplishment in a period of less than six years.

From a kitchen and a kitchen stove, Mrs. West's plant has grown to include a cold storage and artificial ice equipment and everything needed in the way of modern machinery.

Mrs. West came of a family of New York dairymen. When the need came to her to earn a living she reverted to the craft of her family for generations back.

MONROE COUNTY BOYS AND GIRLS AT STATE FAIR

Good Showing Made at Milwaukee by Calf Club Members and Demonstration Teams

Monroe County Boys' and Girls' club members made a splendid showing at the State fair last week.

Twenty-five calves were shipped from the Monroe county fair at Tomah direct to the State Fair park. They were Guernseys, Jerseys and Holsteins and won $187 in prize money in the calf club classes alone. Many of these calves were also entered in the open classes where they made a creditable showing. In the contest during the week at the state fair, Donald Huddleston, competing with fifty or sixty other boys and girls from all parts of the state won second in the Showmans' contest. This is a contest put on by the Wisconsin Livestock Breeders' association for which three prizes were offered, namely, a silver trophy, a Showmans Kit and the Showmans Halter. Donald was a very close contestant for the silver trophy, according to County Agent Liddle, and it was only by a close margin that he got second instead of first.

Three demonstration teams were also sent from Monroe county to the state fair. The three teams are the Sparta Calf association team, the Tomah Jersey team and the Wilton Canning team. Mr. Liddle says that all of these teams did splendid work.

Awards

The awards to the boys and girls on their calves are as follows: Mildred Selbach, ninth in a class of 32 senior Holstein heifer calves; Albert Ruetten, seventh in a class of 17 senior Holstein bull calves; Joyce Huddelston, secured a class of 10 junior Guernsey heifers; Edward Schantz, 4th in a class of junior Guernsey heifer calves; William Freeman, third in a class of 17 senior Guernsey heifers; Harold Bowyer and Donald Huddelston, ninth and tenth in the same class; Edward Schantz was placed twelfth in the senior Guernsey heifer class.

In the junior Guernsey bulls, Edward Schantz received second place and Donald Huddleston fourth. The junior Jersey exhibitors from the eastern part of the county were very successful in their showing, taking a number of blues and reds. In the county calf club exhibit Monroe county calves tied for fifth place.

HOLSTEIN COW SETS THREE-YEAR RECORD IN MILK PRODUCING

CHICAGO, — Adirondac Weltske Dairy Maid, a pure bred Holstein owned by the Bridgford Holstein Company, Patterson, Cal., is the only cow in the world which has produced more than 1,000 pounds of butterfat and 30,000 pounds of milk in three consecutive years, according to a recent announcement by the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

"Adirondac" has just completed a yearly semi-official test with a record of 31,580.9 pounds of milk containing 1,014.47 pounds of butterfat, the announcement said, for a total production in three years of 97,882.6 pounds or more than 46,600 quarts of milk and 3,186.61 pounds of butterfat. The latter is equivalent to 3933.4 pounds of butter, or equal to the production of eight average dairy cows for the same period.

Our stock and prices will surprise you. (We sold three bulls last month).

We are making special prices on Bulls and Spring Boars this month, and on easy terms. All we ask of you is to call and let us show you what we have to offer, and give you the price.
